THURLOW WEED'S paper, the New York Commercial Advertiser, says this Congress "can more easily do a foolish thing than any Congress that has yet been convened."

THE news from Arkansas continues exciting. The militia made a raid on another town yesterday, burned sveral stores, and murdered an old gentleman and threw his body in the fire. What has become of Gen. Gillem, that he does not put a stop to these outrages?

To add six more Judges to the in reproducing the Bulletin's article Supreme Court; to quadruple the is to show to the members of the salary of the President and build a Legislature and others, that liberal new house for him, and to add twenty per cent to the pay of all even in Tennessee. This spirit of the employes at Washington-these | liberality and progress has reached are the "retrenchments" already | the Legislature, and we have had proposed by the Radicals. The proposition to increase the pay of of a disposition to sweep away the the government employes at Wash- barriers to peace and prosperity in ington, but no where else, emanated the State. There is every incentive rom the Calf Killer in Tennessee.

MR. WILSON, of Massachusetts introduced a bill in the United States Senate to increase the number of Supreme Judges to fourteen. When Judge Carton died, the Radia eals in Congress passed a law which prevented President Johnson from appointing a successor. The law was so framed that the President could not appoint a successor to Judge Wayne when he died. The excuse for the passage of this law ws economy. The Supreme Court is now composed of eight members, while there were nine thirty years ago, and there is no doubt that more Judges are needed, but not more so than when Congress passed a law preventing appointments by President Johnson. The cry of economy which was raised, was that the so-called "Rebels" are not hypocritical, as is demonstrated by the proposition to so increase the number of Judges as to give the appointment of six to Gen. Grant.

The Press then rails out: "A pioneer thinker, a gentleman of culture, finished scholarship, and polished oratory. on whose slips have hung the best audiences of the country, the empty benches were a reflection on the culture and literary mind of our city, not on the speaker." Then turning with still profounder pathos upon the Irish and negroes who had also decided to let Mr. Phillips "severely alone," it adds: "It might have been reasonably supposed that the Celtic and colored races, in whose behalf Mr. Phillips appeared, would have crowded every aisle and seat; but it was not so." This is indeed a sad state of things. Such a manifestation of contemptu ous indifference, not only by "the culture and literary mind" of Philadelphia, but by the Irish, and especially by the negroes, was enough to draw "iron tears from Pluto's cheek.

THE LEGAL TENDER CASE. The suits before the Supreme Court now pending for decision and attracting so much attention, involve a single but comprehensive point. The case from New York-Bronson, executor, vs. Rodes-represents the question. a

It is whether a contract payable according to its terms in gold and silver coin, made before the passage of the legal tender law, could be discharged after its passage by a payment in legal tender notes. If band can be relied on. His state it be decided that such a tender was not sufficient, parties who have received treasury notes in return for coin deposits, or for coin contracts, I think that General Custar was, in may recover the difference.

The opening argument thus stated the merits of the case: "The suit originated in the State of New lably demanded and would have York by a bill in which the equita- blood."
